Our policies on anti-modern slavery and human trafficking

The Group has established Tokyo Electron Group Human Rights Policy referring to the United Nations' Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and the International Bill of Human Rights and the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work referred to therein, the Ten Principles of the United Nations Global Compact, and the RBA Code of Conduct. We have firmly upheld human rights since our founding as reflected in the spirit of "the Corporate Philosophy" and "the Management Policies" of the Group. Key human rights issues are also addressed in the Group's Code of Ethics and Procurement Policy, which covers the Group's entire operations and direct supply chains.

We incorporate the concept of respect into every aspect of our business activities and strive to create a corporate culture that enables each person to realize his or her full potential and freely enjoy their livelihood. We also give the highest consideration to the health and safety of every person and respect his or her dignity.

For us, respecting human rights means a significant understanding not only to fulfil our responsibility for eliminating modern slavery and other adverse impacts on people through business activities, but also those who support our business activities, and contribute to the realization of a sustainable dream-inspiring society.

In recent years, there has been an emerging concern in the electronics industry for better treatment of workers in supply chains. We therefore publicly announced our membership of the RBA in June 2015 and our commitment that the Group would conform to the RBA Code of Conduct. In line with this, we are committed to pursuing socially responsible practices in accordance with global standards and to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business, with a continuous improvement approach.

Due diligence processes for slavery and human trafficking

We have zero tolerance to slavery and human trafficking. As part of our initiative to identify and mitigate slavery and human trafficking risk the Group has worked to establish a robust due diligence system throughout the organization.

Key steps we have taken as of the fiscal year ending 31 March 2026 are as follows:

- We continue to assess our conformity with the RBA Code of Conduct. This is conducted by way of a sustainability assessment in the areas of labour and employment practices, health and safety, ethics, the protection of the environment, and management systems. This has been extended to cover human resources, logistics, customs and facility service suppliers in addition to our materials suppliers.
- We investigated our suppliers to mitigate risks associated with forced labour and debt labour in our supply chain. Our suppliers worked with us to take the corrective actions that we had identified. With the understanding and cooperation of our suppliers, we continue to combat modern slavery in our supply chain.

- In 2025, we increased the number of locations surveyed from 12 to 19 and continued to conduct investigations into human rights violation risks within our group companies, as we had done the previous year. Our investigation included distribution of a unified survey to each Group company. The survey contained the same questions and indicators as the survey we ask our suppliers to complete. Following review of the responses, we provided feedback to each group company, and requested corrective actions where required to further reduce any internal risks related to breach of human rights.
- We have published “Tokyo Electron Group Code of Ethics” as a code of conduct for all executives and employees and to ensure awareness of our Code of Ethics, we have translated it into 6 languages. Our Code of Ethics includes a statement to secure human rights and commit to ensuring human rights and not discriminating or supporting forced labour, debt labour, child labour, or any other form of modern slavery. We conduct mandatory annual training on the Code of Ethics and collect acknowledgements of compliance from executives and employees, aiming to achieve a pledge rate of 100%.

We have established an internal reporting system that is also accessible to our suppliers, “TEL Group Ethics & Compliance Hotline” as a global common internal point of contact that uses a third-party system to maintain confidentiality and anonymity. This hotline can be accessed via phone or a dedicated website 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, and accommodates all languages used by employees. Also, we provide an external point of contact at a law firm that can be contacted directly. We responded to all reports we received through these points of contact, conducted investigations in accordance with internal rules to implement corrective measures as well as preventive measures. We do not tolerate retaliation against those who report ethics and compliance concerns in good faith, ensuring no one is permitted to engage in retaliation, or any form of retaliatory behaviours, against another for reporting ethics and compliance concerns. We promote enhancement of the reporting system. Breakdown of Consultation/Report Contents is disclosed in our integrated report 2025.

- We proactively continued the activities of our human rights project team with representatives from our compliance, human resources, procurement, logistics, facility service and sustainability departments. The team has focused on conducting the sustainability assessment, evaluation and analysis of assessment results. With the process established, the team promotes and supports established corrective actions from each Group company as well as our suppliers and requests their cooperation with corrective actions to mitigate the risk in our supply chain.
- We have released new e-learning materials on business and human rights for all employees. This e-learning materials is available in 6 languages and aims to deepen understanding of respect for human rights.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide human rights training to all our employees.

Our effectiveness in combating slavery and human trafficking

Our Group's major sites are currently rated as low risk and we will continue to measure how effective we have been in ensuring that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in any part of our business or supply chains:

Further steps

Following a review of the effectiveness of the steps we have taken this year to ensure that there is no slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains we intend to take the following further steps to combat slavery and human trafficking:

- Strengthen the structure and activities of human rights projects to deepen our due diligence process.
- Using the new questionnaire, continue to assess and monitor the risks in our supply chain.
- Implement corrective actions in our supply chain to mitigate risks based on evaluation and analysis of the sustainability assessment results.
- We are actively working to evaluate the effectiveness of corrective actions. If there is a problem with effectiveness, the corrective measures themselves will be reviewed.
- We will promote enhanced disclosure in our integrated report and on our website.
- Additionally, we will further improve our grievance mechanisms and make them more effective so that we can quickly and appropriately deal with negative impacts on human rights.
- Pursuit of transparency and enhancement of disclosed information.
